EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

The Fatal Prize Fight.

CAMDEN, Del., Aug 31.—Weeden and Walker, pugilists of New York, fought 87 rounds on the New Jersey shore, near Pennsville. Weeden was declared victor. The sheriff was prevented from arresting, but notified the crowd that he would follow the principals and such of their backers as he could recognize, to Philadelphia, and prosecute them to the full extent of the law.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 31.—A young man called at police headquarters late this evening and stated that after the fight Walker was laid on a board in the ring and every one deserted him, that Weeden had a boat about putting off and got them to assist him in placing Walker on board. Walker was dead when at the time. He remained so until the steamer left the dock, which occurred when half way to the city.

A dead body was found this evening near Gray's wharf, at Greenwich Point, his face and neck badly bruised. The police are searching for all parties connected with the affair.

Nevada and is of the firm of Lee & Brown owners of one of the best claims in Deadwood district which has been averaging $1 000 a day for some time. Holland hails from Sioux City, Iowa, and Smith was a preacher late of Kentucky. Lou Mason was of Denver and was killed whilst in pursuit of the party who killed Smith on the night of the 25d.

The news from Custer City to the same paper gives the details of the killing of four men near that place on the 25d whilst en route to their hay camp although no names are given. A party pursued the Indians who numbered by the trail twenty two and followed them to the hay camp but the Indians had been there in advance and taken everything but a grindstone. The place where these men were ambushed was at the head of a long canon running eastward. The Indians hiding in the rocks waited for their approach, although all were not killed at the first fire, as the bodies of two men were found in the rocks, whither they had fled.

POLITICAL.

Gov. Seymour Persists in Declining.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Herald publishes an interview with Gov. Seymour this morning. The governor says: "Yesterday morning I received a letter from my physician forbidding me making any mental or physical effort, and declaring that the acceptance of this or any other public position would be detrimental if it did not prevent my ultimate recovery. In view of these facts it will be impossible for me to accept the nomination, and I so informed the gentlemen from Saratoga, who waited upon me this morning, requesting my acceptance."

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Evening Post's special from Utica says nothing can alter Horatio Seymour's determination not to permit the use of his name as the Democratic candidate for governor. He says this morning he will listen to no more gentlemen who will harangue the nomination upon him, no matter who they are. He has been made sick by the interviewing and excitement of the last two days.

UTICA, Sept. 1.—Senator Kernan spent to-day with Gov. Seymour. It is believed that all further effort to induce Gov. Seymour to reconsider and accept the nomination will be abandoned.

The N. Y. Herald on the Fraud at Saratoga.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Herald this morning says editorially there never was a more astounding verification of the old Roman proverb that whom the gods wish to destroy they first deprive of their reason, than has been exhibited by the demented Democratic State Convention which has just been in session at Saratoga. The errors, blunders and inconceivable stupidity of that body, the amazing deception which it has dealt at liberty to practice on the Democratic party and on the public, is so entirely without example or parallel, that we are at a loss for language to characterize as it deserves. How utterly vain and futile has this age of quick telegraphic communication are attempts to mislead and hoodwink the public. We are in the presence of the most grotesque political situation ever exhibited in this country—a situation fitted to excite the scornful laughter of Republicans and anger and shame of Democrats. We have ample evidence that Seymour, instead of accepting the nomination which the convention attempted to force upon him, declines it absolutely. What language is strong enough to stigmatize the false report of the committee sent to wait upon him and inform him of his nomination. This deceitful and unscrupulous committee told the convention that he had accepted, when in fact he has authorized no such report. In whose interest and by whose suggestion they perpetrated so brazen and barefaced a deception? by whose instigation were they daring enough or reckless enough to make a false report to the effect that Seymour had accepted, and to cause the convention to adjourn without making another nomination, and thereby put in the power of the Democratic central committee to fill the vacant place in the ticket? If the majority of the committee are creatures of Tilden, the practical effect of their deceit and abuse of their trust to enable him to nominate a candidate for governor. Was Tilden's secret abettor of this enormous fraud? If his skirts are clean, who encouraged the committee to make a false report? The nomination of the weakest candidate in the whole list of aspirants could not have damaged the Democratic cause so much as this deliberate deception practiced in convention.

Good Faith of Tilden's Friends in the Nomination of Seymour.

NEW YORK, Sept 1.—Gen. L. B. Faulkner this evening sent Gov Seymour the following telegram as showing the good faith of Gov Tilden's friends in the matter of Gov Seymour's nomination: "The State convention, including myself, acted toward you in the utmost good faith. The form of the [illegible] grain received by me from Springfield was agreed on in the committee of, ten to signify, as its language indicates, your acceptance. I remained in Saratoga to more speedily convey your decision to the convention." The following is the form of the dispatch referred to above, received by Gen. Faulkner from Mr Springs, dated Utica: "Go on and complete the ticket."

Seymour Undecided.

UTICA, Sept. 1.—The conferences between Gov. Seymour and his friends in regard to his nomination have not yet closed. His friends are hopeful he will conclude to submit to the choice of the convention and the will of the people. Gov. Tilden and Lieut. Gov. Dorsheimer were not here. Senator Kernan admits his efforts to persuade Seymour failed utterly.

Democratic Uneasiness about New York.

The Inter Ocean's Washington special says Democratic politicians show much uneasiness over the situation in New York, and admit that the declination of Seymour will make their campaign difficult and render victory much easier for the Republicans. In Democratic headquarters the intimation is thrown out that the situation is one of Tilden's own choosing, that he secretly brought about the nomination of Seymour, knowing the latter would decline in order that he, Tilden, might control the state committee and substitute a person in every way in sympathy with himself. It is said that Tilden's plan has been strictly carried out, and he will now have the selection of the person for governor.

Disgusted.

AUBURN, Sept. 1.—The Morning News has taken the Democratic state ticket from the head of its columns, saying that villainous frauds have been practiced. It calls for the reassembling of the convention and the nomination of a ticket in a fair, open handed manner.

Pinchback on the Stump.

CHICAGO, Sept 1.—The Tribune's Lafayette (Ind.) special says: Hon P. B. S. Pinchback arrived this afternoon, and this evening was escorted by colored guards to the Republican stand where he said he came not only in the interest of the Republican party, but in behalf of a downtrodden race. He spoke at length of the condition of the negroes in the South, and of the social and political outlook in the South, and of the work they labored. They were action under which they labored. They were deprived of free speech free press and protection in business. They were not protected from improper search and seizure. They were the majority of the loyal element of the South. They were steady, industrious, peaceful Christian citizens and were therefore persecuted by the Southern Democracy. He pleaded with the North for their assistance and support. He refuted the statement of Voorhees that the reason why so many of officers were elected who were formerly in rebellion, was because they were the only men who had brains enough for such positions in the South. He alluded to the cotton claims in the House which he declared would be immediately paid when the Democrats came into power.

Pinchback was heard by a very large and attentive audience.

Democrats Well Organized.

Tribune's Washington special: It is evident from actions about Democratic headquarters here that there is some kind of secret work progressing, and great results are expected from it. There is evidence of a much more perfect organization on the part of the Democrats for the work than since the war. There is a good deal of quiet satisfaction among them at the apparent confidence of the Republicans and the belief exists that it will have the effect to make the campaign less vigorous than it otherwise might be.

Congressional Nominations.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—The Independents of the fourth Indiana district have nominated Wm L Bright for Congress.

ST LOUIS, Sept 1.—The Democrats of the 9th Congressional District have renominated R P Bland.

QUINCY, Ill., Sept 1.—The Republicans of the 11th Congressional District to-day nominated Joseph Robbins.

A party of Empire City prospectors has struck a good thing on the beach about 50 miles north of that place. Quite a rich body of black sand has been found under a deposit of gravel, and the boys, it is said, are making big wages.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Bank of England.

LONDON, Sept 1.—Bullion gone into the Bank of England to day, 170 000.

The New U. S. Bonds.

The new U. S. funded loan is quoted at 10⅞ to 10¾. The Economist says it is understood applications thus far are fairly satisfactory, the bulk of them being for actual investment. The decline in consols is due to the attractive character of the new American 4½ per cent funding loan, just offered here by the Europeans syndicate and several London banks are selling the former to take up these bonds.

A Marquis Convicted of Forgery.

Bologna Guiseppe Mantegoza, sixth Marquis of Heschatolho, who has been on trial before the assizes court here, charged with forgery, fraud and falsification, forging the names of King Victor Emanuel, Prince Humbert of Savoy, and the British consul at Florence to a number of bills of exchange, has been convicted and sentenced to eight years of penal servitude.

Grant's Response to Emperor William.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—The reply of President Grant to the Emperor's letter of congratulations on the occasion of the centenary of American independence was presented to-day. The President speaks of the close friendship between the countries, and hopes the relations will continue.

Inauguration of the New Sultan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—The deposition of Murad occasions no excitement or disturbance. The deposed monarch has been assigned Tcheregan palace as his residence. Abdul Hamid, the new Sultan, was received by the ministers and public functionaries at Top Capon palace, where he was proclaimed Abdul Hamid Second.

Servian Army Reinforced by Russians.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A correspondent writing from Belgrade says the Servian army is being rapidly reinforced and reorganized by the Russians, who are crossing Roumania and Hungary in large numbers, and that since the influx the Servians have fought better and seem more likely to hold their ground against the Turks. The extent of advantages gained is only to be judged by the reflex influence upon the political situation at Belgrade.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—A special from Pesth to the News says the passage of Russian officers through Hungary is becoming a source of irritation, and several parties have been arrested and imprisoned. To-day we have account of a party of 58 provided with passports and traveling under the protection of the Geneva cross, being detained by order of the Hungarian home ministry, but Baron Hoffman, acting for Count Andrassy during his absence, has decided that they be allowed to proceed, and that similar travelers from Russia be permitted to pass unmolested. Meantime peace negotiations, which have been committed to the ambassadors at Constantinople, seem not to be making satisfactory progress. Another telegram states that at the council of the Turkish cabinet Wednesday, it was determined to postpone any decision regarding the suspension of hostilities until the wishes of the powers concerning the terms of peace were more fully ascertained. This indicates that the powers themselves have not arrived at any agreement regarding the basis of negotiations and tends to confirm the statement that Russia will not assume a prominent part in the steps now being taken to stop bloodshed, fully participated in the diplomatic action at Belgrade, which induced Prince Milan to request the mediation of the powers. Russia has constantly in view the necessity of obtaining guarantees for securing peaceful intercourse between the Christian and the Mohamedan population of Turkey. The Russian policy remains the same as at the Berlin conference, and there is no reason to suppose other views prevail at Vienna or Berlin.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A Belgrade dispatch says it is reported that the insurgents in Bosnia gained some successes, and from Alexinatz a report comes that the Turks had been forced to cross to the left bank of the Morava, and that the right bank of the river is now clear of the enemy.

The Times correspondent at Belgrade says the heavy mortality among the Russian officers at the front gives rise to painful rumors, and it is believed that all have not met death at the hands of the Turks.

Servian Political News.

BELGRADE, Sept. 1.—Ristic to-day stated the Servians had not received any intimation from Turkey regarding the desire expressed by her, to enter into negotiations for peace. It was in response to England that Prince Milan declared he was willing to enter upon such negotiations. Servia will not be able to accept the rigorous conditions. The change of sovereigns might retard negotiations and alter the conditions of peace and the situation of the belligerents.

Honors to the New Sultan.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—The city was illuminated last night in honor of the new Sultan. The ships in the harbor were decorated with flags. The ceremony of girding Abdul Hamid with the sword of Osman is announced for the 9th inst.

Turkish Politics.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—All the ministers will remain in office. A conference of the representatives of the guaranteeing powers was held yesterday, and the question of mediation discussed. All had received identical instructions from their respective governments. By Saturday or Monday they will take official steps to bring about an armistice.

Servian Loan taken in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1.—The subscription for the new Servian loan was opened August 31st. The loan was eagerly taken by the public.

English Hop Harvest.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—The hop harvest is progressing everywhere. Estimates based upon trustworthy information gives the probable crops as follows: In England, two-thirds of the quantity grown in 1875, in Germany and Belgium, one half.

Liverpool Grain Circular.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 1.—A leading grain circular says since Tuesday the weather has been very broken, with heavy gales and almost incessant rain. The progress of harvest has been materially interrupted. Taking the Kingdom generally a large proportion of the wheat remains exposed in the fields, the home supply at the same time being limited. The demands of consumers have again been freely directed to foreign stocks, and these as well as home-grown have further advanced in most markets—the latter as much as one and two shillings per quarter.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The debt statement shows a reduction during August of $3,120,000, amount of coin in treasury, $62,530,156; currency balances, $11,666,905; special deposits of legal tender held for redemption of certificates of deposit, $31 880,000; coin certificates, $29 969 800. The Secretary of the Treasury has to-day called for redemption of $10,000,000 five-twenty bonds of 1865, May and November, upon which interest will cease on 1st of December.

Re-Survey and Measurement of the Overland Railway.

By direction of the Secretary of War, Capt. W. J. Twining, corps of engineer U. S. A., has been assigned to temporary duty in charge of the survey of the U P and C P R R, between Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Sacramento, Cal., as contemplated by the resolution of the House of Representatives of July 19, 1876, and section 5 of the legislative executive and judicial appropriation bill for the present fiscal year. Captains W. H. Huer and James F. Gregory, and First Lieuts. R. D. Gresu and James B. Quinn, of the engineer corps have been ordered to report to Capt. Twining for the purpose of assisting him in the work. The resolution of July 19th, referred to, was submitted in the House by Jencks, the preamble of which recites the allegation that the measurements of distances on the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroad, upon which bonds were issued by the Government to the companies owning said railways was hastily and inaccurately made. The resolution then directs the secretary of War to detail a sufficient force from the Engineer Corps of the army to make a careful and exact survey of the distance of said roads between Omaha and Sacramento, distinguished between sections, for which bonds were issued by the companies at different rates exhibiting the number of miles at each rate, designating point between point different rates were designated and report result to the House at the commencement of the next session. The eighth section of the legislative bill referred to appropriates $10 000 for the purpose of defraying expenses of the survey between Council Bluffs and Sacramento instead of from Omaha to Sacramento.

Appointments by the President.

The President has appointed Charles Rumby, assayer and M A Mycndorf, melter, at the assay office, Helena.

Rumor Discredited.

The rumor that Assistant Secretary Conant will be removed is discredited here. When secretary Morrill left recently, he designated Conant to act as secretary and if any movement has begun against him it originated at Long Branch. It is the more unlikely because Conant is most familiar with the details of the office, and almost indispensable.

NEVADA.

A Good Old Mine.

PALISADE, Sept 1.—Some fifteen miles from this is a place which for the last three years has been almost totally abandoned, but which at length bids fair to claim the attention of capitalists and mining companies generally. A brick of refined bullion was received this morning per Eureka and Palisade railroad for shipment to San Francisco, the product of the Gunnison mine and the result of a three days run. The brick weighs 1158 ounces degree of fineness, 800, silver with no trace of gold. This mine is owned by A J Gunnison, of San Francisco, who has expended an immense amount in the erection of hoisting works, a 10 stamp mill, amalgamating works etc. A number of other mines are contiguous to the Gunnison and prospecting in that locality will probably be vigorous.

To Await Action of Grand Jury.

Two boys who attempted to wreck the passenger train on the C P railroad have been sent to Eureka to await action of grand jury.

The switch at Forest Grove station is nearly completed. It is about 600 feet long. Several parties will build warehouses there. The land donated by Mr Smith is 1,200 feet long and 85 feet wide, and is to be used only for railroad purposes.

Democratic Political Assessment.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The recent Democratic assessment on city officers and employees continues to be a fruitful topic of conversation and complaint around the city hall. While there is much rebellious feeling, the probability is that the tax will be required of even of Republicans engaged in public offices, to their great trouble and annoyance. It is reported that a fund of $60,000 will be raised by assessment among Democratic office-holders throughout the State for campaign purposes.

Report of the Grand Jury on Affairs in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The grand jury in its report rendered this morning commends the members of the Board of Supervisors, who, in conjunction with the Mayor, have opposed the wasteful and extravagant administration of affairs in connection with street cleaning contracts, conducting the house of correction and other public institutions. These and other acts of the majority of the board have caused the chief financial officer of the city to declare he had never known a more reckless board. The report also commends the recent address of the Chief of Police to the force, on the subject of hoodlum outrages, and in that connection deprecates the habit of reckless shooting on the streets, indulged in by officers in pursuit of criminals. The jury express regret that they have not had time to fully investigate charges in connection with the erection of frame buildings within the fire limits, by consent of the Board of Supervisors, but state they have taken testimony which they believe to be true that in many instances such privileges have been procured by various sums of money, in some cases as high as $250, and that in endeavoring to trace such amounts to the place of final deposit, have met with evasive answers, almost amounting to perjury. They further request all parties who have been approached in any way by public officers, with the view of obtaining bribes, to report the same to the district attorney, who will give the matter prompt attention and bring the guilty parties to justice.

Distillery Seized.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Revenue Collector Sedgwick has seized Field's grape brandy distillery at Mission San Jose for violation of the revenue law. The distillery was engaged in the manufacture of spirits of wine without having filed bonds as required by law, or paid the special tax also required. Besides the distilling house and grounds, 1,774 gallons of proof spirits and 23,598 gallons of wine were seized. Proceedings for confiscation will be commenced by District Attorney Coghlan in a few days.

Republican Campaign in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The Hayes Invincibles held an immense meeting at Horticultural Hall to night, W. H. Sears presiding. The Fourth Artillery Band furnished the music. Speeches were delivered by Rev. W. W. McKay, Dr. Cox, Hon. G. W. Wells, Congressman from Mississippi; a recitation by W. M. Leman, of California Theater, singing by the Glee Club, and the presentation of a flag from the Grant Invincibles of 1872, to the Hayes Invincibles of 1876. The presentation was made by Miss Morey, of the Girls' High School. Prescott Sears, in response, gave a history of the adoption of the national flag. A crowd of several thousand packed the hall.

Killed in a Drunken Row.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug 31.—This evening a man, aged about 50 years, a Sonorian, was shot through the heart and instantly killed in a bar-room at Castro station, about four miles from this place, on the Havilah road. The murder is supposed to have been committed by the bar-tender, as he is missing. Only two men were present at the time, both of whom were too intoxicated to give any particulars.

Railway Extension.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—From latest advices it appears the inaugural train connecting Los Angeles and San Francisco cannot possibly arrive here before Tuesday, owing to delay in completing the road.

Brakeman Frightfully Wounded.

MISSION SAN JOSE, Sept. 1.—At half-past nine o'clock this morning, while the accommodation train from San Jose was at Niles' Station, one of the brakemen, while attending to some work about the tender was run through the abdomen about six inches by the couplings of the baggage car. The injured man was taken to San Jose immediately by a special train. The wound was frightful and very little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Distressing Accident.

About seven o'clock last evening, while Mrs. Crawford, wife of John Crawford, living near Warm Springs, was at a neighbor's house for a few minutes, her two little children, whom she left at home, got, by some way, hold of some matches, and on the return of Mrs Crawford she found the clothes of the oldest one, aged about three years, ablaze and the child dead. The other child escaped injury.

Hayes and Wheeler Campaign in California.

YREKA, Sept. 1.—A meeting of the Hayes and Wheeler club, held in this place last night, was well attended, several ladies being also present. The meeting opened with a campaign song by the glee club, followed with a speech from W. J. Nichols, closing with an instructive and interesting address on the doctrine of State rights, by Calvin Edgerton. The meeting adjourned with three rousing cheers for Hayes and Wheeler. A Hayes and Wheeler club has been organized at Fort Jones, the permanent officers of which will be elected at next meeting.

News from San Diego.

SAN DIEGO, Sept 1.—Grain is coming in lively. All the roads from the interior are lined with teams hauling grain and hay. Over 3 000 sacks are already on the wharf for the Orizaba's next trip.

The work on the turning of the San Diego river is progressing favorably. They are working 50 teams and white men and 75 Chinese.

Excitement in Tecarte.

Advices from Tecarte valley say great excitement prevails there. The Mexicans are trying to capture some of the lawless Indians. The Americans on this side of the line are considerably alarmed, and Mr. Gaskill, from Campo, telegraphed to district attorney Wildy for assistance. The civil authorities will do all possible to maintain order, but the presence of troops would have a good effect.

SATURDAY MORNING, SEPT. 2, 1876.

SOUTHERN AFFAIRS.

While the public mind is being mainly directed, thus far in the campaign, to the two subjects of civil service reform and the finances, a third great subject—that of Southern affairs—is in some danger of being thrown into the background and overlooked. Every time this is alluded to a cry of "bloody-shirt" "bloody-shirt!" is raised, and a discussion of the subject is thus attempted to be staved off. But while there should be no rancor or ill will or harshness in such a discussion, it should not be passed over. If a dispassionate and intelligent examination into the condition of Southern affairs should reveal that the whites have not been in the wrong, and that the troubles existing in the South do not owe their origin to them, they will be immensely the gainers, and the result would probably be to ensure their success in the coming election. This they must see. Besides, the whole force of the government would immediately be exerted to rid them of the causes of their trouble. But the Democracy do not wish to have the matter discussed. They attempt to put aside its discussion as if it were fraught with danger to them. They declare that there is nothing to discuss, and yet the troubles in the South continue, and whites and blacks fight and slay each other. The whites, through their white friends, complain of wrongs and intimidations; of oppression and murder. Much of what they may complain may not exist, but some of it does.

The difficulty of ascertaining the truth is enormous. Two great men have reported on the state of affairs in the South, the one finding nothing, the other everything to condemn. It is evident that neither is entirely right, and it is equally evident that the condition of the blacks in the South is not so assured as it should be. But the relations existing between the two races are not so friendly as to make it certain that, if a Democratic President should occupy the White House and a Democratic Congress sit at the capitol, the blacks might not be unduly humbled and oppressed. There should be the least real danger of this, it is the duty of every citizen of the North and South, to prevent it, no matter whether he be Democrat or Republican. The political equality of the negroes may have been bestowed upon them too soon, as Sumner and others believed—but it was so bestowed and cannot be recalled. They must be guaranteed in the enjoyment of that right—honor and justice require it, and no man, North or South, has denied, or will deny, their claim to it. But there are ways, well known to those who desire to follow them, of defeating to accomplish illegal objects without trenching to transgress the laws, and there are grave reasons for fearing the intolerance exhibited by the Democracy to go into a direction of the Wise of affairs in the South-proceeds from of a revolution of some of these and what they lead to. If there are grounds for such a fear now, with the Government at in the hands of the party which is and always has been the friend of the blacks, and which always been ready to protect them—would the state of affairs be likely to be if the administration of government came into the hands of a party that has always been opposed to the blacks? Would not the ill-will, and discord now existing be increased and troubles multiplied? If so, it would be wise and prudent even if the blacks were entirely misguided and the interest of the whites alone looked to, to take measures to prevent the government from getting into the hands of the Democracy. If on the other hand after a full and free discussion of the whole matter it should appear that the condition of the Southern people would be benefited by transferring the Government to the Democracy, that fact would be a reason for voting for Tilden.

It is hard to believe that the disposition of the whites to push the blacks to the wall would not grow very much stronger on receipt of the news of Tilden's election. We cannot but think the welfare of the whites and blacks would be more secured under Mr. Hayes than under Mr. Tilden. We do not mean that Mr. Tilden would countenance open wrongdoing to the negroes by the whites, or that he would hesitate to do his duty when required. But if Tilden should be elected the national offices in the South would be filled with Southern Democrats imbued with the feelings and prejudices of their class, and it might be next to an impossibility for them to be as prompt and energetic in the protection of the blacks as cases might some times demand; for, it should be remembered, the blacks would be entitled to protection from insult as well as injury, and a Democratic officer would find the arrest of a white man for a trivial offense against a black one a matter very different in the estimation of the people from the arrest of a black for a similar offense against a white—and yet the two men should be esteemed alike by the officers of the law. Hence, while honest men (all our readers) are making up their minds whom to support, this subject should not be overlooked, but should be considered calmly and without prejudice either way. Whichever opinion is fairly arrived at is the one to be adopted and acted upon.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The latest information from the wheat growing sections of this valley confirms the belief that never before in the State has there been as great number of instances in which wheat fields failed to produce a full yield. Not that there is anything resembling a failure of the general crop, but the yield is short in many more than the usual number of cases. In Benton county a great deal of wheat is grown and the Democrat says of the crop in that county this year:

Now that the harvest has so far progressed that a just estimate can be made of the yield, it is sound to be far below the estimates of our most practical farmers. Many fields which have heretofore produced from twenty-five to thirty-five bushels per acre, will not this year yield over fifteen or twenty bushels, and but very few fields will come anything near up to their usual yields. How the late sown grain will turn out can only be conjectured, but it is hoped that it will in a measure make up for the falling off in that already harvested.

Marion county, second in the list of wheat producing counties of the State, also reports short crops in many parts, but especially so on all the flat prairies which usually turn out large crops. The Farmer says:

As the present harvest draws toward a close we perceive that in all Oregon as has been the case in California, the yield is much below the average. Fall wheat yields a poorer return than the "oldest inhabitant" knows of, and the spring wheat hardly comes up to the expectations entertained. It is variously conjectured as to what may cause this failure of crops. The facts are that while the grain that perfects is a beautiful, plump berry, still the heads are imperfect and very light, owing to the failure of many of the grains to fill at all. This was also the case in the harvest just completed in California. Conjecture is that the continued rains prevalent during the season when the wheat was in bloom, beat off the pollen and prevented impregnation.

Also, it is undoubted that much of the winter wheat was partially drowned out by the continued winter rains, and that this thinning of the wheat gave opportunity for the growth of weeds that choked the grain in some instances. Then, there were some terribly hot days early in June, and at intervals through that month, that must have worked disaster to the forming heads. Coming after rains, as they did, these fervid spells blighted many of the grains and in some instances caused the wheat to rust, as was the case on the farm of Mr. Delos Jefferson, near Salem, who reports that from this cause his yield was not over 15 bushels per acre, when it should, from appearances, have reached 30 bushels. Mr. F. H. Eldridge, of Fairfield, informs us that in that vicinity the fall wheat, in many instances yielded less than enough to pay for harvesting, and gives the following facts: The Engle boys, near Gervais, cut 100 acres that yielded 3½ to 4 bushels per acre; Smith, near Gervais, cut 80 acres that went but 44 bushels; Wareham, of Fairfield, cut 90 acres that went out 3 bushels. The best yield he knows of is on the farm of D. M. Keen, at Fairfield, who realized about 30 bushels per acre. Mr. Eldridge considers it doubtful if the average yield of wheat on French prairie will exceed 15 bushels per acre. We may safely assume that the yield of wheat in Oregon the present year will be below any returns known in the history of our State, which fact must be attributed to the very unusual weather that has prevailed for the entire harvest year.

The same complaint comes also to us from Linn county, the greatest wheat producer in the State, though we have not seen any account of as great a number of very short crops as is cited by the Farmer. There is no doubt, however, that some such cases can be found all through Western Oregon.

A meeting for the organization of a Hayes and Wheeler club will be held this evening at the court house. We hope it will be well attended. The price of victory this fall is active, persistent, united effort from now until November. Every man is expected to do his duty. No one should hang back. Every one can do something. Let every man put his shoulder to the wheel and strive with all his might, and Oregon will give her electoral votes to the right men. Supineness and indifference will make defeat certain.

SUNDAY MORNING, SEPT. 2, 1876.

CITY.

CALLING FOR MEDICAL MEN.—A few days since Dr. Stryker, of Drain Station, and Dr. Hall, a practicing physician at Scio, were summoned to attend a patient who resided at the latter named place. The patient was a lady who had been complaining for some weeks of a gnawing sensation in the region of the abdomen. She had tried various remedies which were recommended or suggested by friends but failed to derive any permanent relief. At length the ailment grew so bad that she sent for one of the physicians named. An examination was made, a consultation held, and the opinion of the medical gentlemen was that the disease was caused by worms. A powerful cathartic was administered which soon had the effect to dislodge, not a single but a countless number of small worms. These bugs were alive and about one inch in length. They bore a resemblance to the ordinary chinch, or bed bug, only they were smaller and of darker color. A number of these bugs were examined under a microscope, and a few sent to a chemist in a phial and submitted to inspection by several of the leading physicians of the city. Among gentlemen of the medical profession a diversity of opinion prevails relative to the true character of the insect, and considerable speculation as to how such a great number of them got their way into the stomach of the patient, we are informed, experienced a feeling of great relief from the effects of the cathartic, but still complains of feeling a disagreeable sensation below the stomach, which is doubtless due to the presence of a few worms which have not yet been dislodged. This is said to be a remarkable case which medical authorities furnish no parallel, and will afford the profession an opportunity to investigate and study.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORATE.—Rev. A. L. Lindsley, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city, writes to the session of the church here that he hesitated too long to say that he could not accept the extension of the furlough which was granted him, and congregation so generously tendered him last April. The near approach of the time when my vacation finds me without the hope of recuperation which I expected to find, and which I believe I can secure by a visit of the time one or two months. My health, for some time past, of which were apparent to others as well as myself, did not terminate till the last week in June. Before that date the tropical heat of summer, which prevailed for a month or more throughout this coast and far inland to the east, and intensity never known. This was, in a great measure, of the cause of my vacation. I had hoped that the two months of rest would send me back to my work with a rebound of vigor and energy and alluring. But in this I was sadly disappointed. I have since had Rev. Thos. Fraser, of Scotland, who will occupy the Presbyterian church until [illegible] the church is [illegible] and there will be no services now, but it is expected that on Sunday, September 10th, the [illegible] will be maintained.

PASTORATE.—It will be seen by the list of appointments of the Methodist Conference recently held at Albany, that Rev. Mr. Bentley has been returned to the pastorate in this city for the third year. There is, however, that, pursuant to an understanding between the bishop and Mr. Bentley will only remain [illegible] is appointed by the conference to [illegible] is a probability that Rev. C. [illegible] of Oakland, California, will be in charge. Mr. Bentley desired to be relieved of last conference year [illegible] request was not granted at his request. The services will be conducted by Mr. [illegible] another notice.

BRIEF NOTES.

Light letter mail last night.

Mrs. Kern was committed to the insane asylum Thursday.

U. S. Circuit Court next Monday. U. S. District Court Tuesday.

Bootblacks ought to do a good business this weather, but they don't.

Butter and grease were too cowardly to stand the sun yesterday.

There will be a special term of the State Circuit Court next Monday.

Tiger engine was housed last evening, having been undergoing repairs.

No base ball, no scull boat races. What is the matter with the athletes?

The steamer Gussie Telfair is now in port. She brought a full cargo of coal.

Steamer City of Salem will leave Pacific dock this morning for Corvallis.

Septimus Huelat, a well-known attorney at law, of Clackamas county, has been committed to the insane asylum.

A number of new passenger coaches and freight cars are being built at the O. & C. R. R. Company's machine shops.

This afternoon the fine new steamship Gen. W. Elder will leave San Francisco for Portland with freight and passengers.

Remember the matinee this afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Georgia Minstrels for the benefit of the ladies and little folks.

No discount on last month's gas bills after to-day. Save a dollar per thousand by paying up before the office closes this evening.

The old locomotive John H. Couch has been thoroughly reorganized and reconstructed, and is doing good service in drawing a gravel train.

The steamship Ajax, which is to be superseded on the Portland-San Francisco line by the Elder, is to be overhauled for winter service and will soon take the place of the Stephens.

The boys and girls are carefully counting the days, and sighing because vacation days are almost over. Happy, innocent childhood! but then you know, it has its little drawbacks.

To-day the Board of Equalization will complete its labors, and the assessment roll, as "equalized," handed over to the tender mercies of the County Court, which will convene next week.

Talking about your third term, and heated term, we would venture the parenthetic remark that yesterday wasn't slow when you come to speak about the quantity of calorie in the atmosphere.

We observed a big fellow yesterday with a broadcloth suit on, and a generally sweltering appearance, waltz up to a bar and call for a sherry cobbler, and turning it off with a native grace, walked away and muttered something indistinctly about Hades.

OREGON FRUITS AT THE CENTENNIAL

"Pomologist," under the caption of "shall Oregon be represented at the Centennial in her fruits, by a fruit grower," writes as follows:

From time to time you have called the attention of your readers to the importance of Oregon having a full exhibit of her resources at the Centennial, and on August 20th the article of Tourist is exactly to the point, the more so, as for some little time past the above question has been discussed among fruit men. We have good men now at Philadelphia to well represent Oregon in all she has now on exhibit, but none of them is identified with the great fruit interest of our State, none can speak from experience or give the history of the rise and fall and rise again of the great interest that Oregon had, and has now, in the growing of fruits. In view of these facts it is proposed to raise by subscription $500, and send a man to the Centennial, with the best selection of all fruits in season (about 1st October), that he can collect, a man that can talk fruit in all its phases, and who has been identified with the fruit business at least for 20 years.

Now, the question is, can this sum be raised—will interested men and companies contribute generously? Our large land speculators and rich men, whose interest is so closely interwoven with the growth of our State, will they see the importance of this undertaking? The Agricultural Society, so we are informed by the president, Watson, feel not able to advance the sum for this enterprise, on account of the heavy expense for highly necessary improvements now going on at the fair grounds; but acknowledge the importance thereof and recommend it to the interested and whoever goes, goes under the authority of the Oregon Agricultural Society.

This is no fancy, it is business; and the market of the world for our dried fruits, and with these we can beat the world. If anything is to be done, it must be done at once, as time is short. POMOLOGIST.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.

There will be no services in the Presbyterian church to-morrow.

There will be no services at the Unitarian church to-morrow. Sunday school at half-past 12.

THE REPUBLICAN RALLY.

The Republicans of Portland and East Portland will remember the call issued and signed by several hundred of our leading citizens, for a meeting which will be held this (Saturday) evening at the court house, for the purpose of organizing a Hayes and Wheeler club. Music will be in attendance, and the meeting will be addressed by a number of prominent speakers. Every Republican who feels an interest in the election of the two great standard bearers of the party, is expected to be present this evening at the meeting. Let there be a general rally.

AMUSEMENTS.

Delighted audiences assemble nightly to witness the excellent performances of the Georgia Minstrels. Billy Wilson and Crusoe carried off the honors last night, their sayings and dancing meeting with decided applause. The choruses in the first part were rendered with fine effect, and elicited much praise. The attendance seems to increase and we would not be surprised if the company would extend their stay with us. They give a matinee at two o'clock and a performance this evening. The house will be jammed on each occasion.

THE TURF.

This afternoon there will be two races over the Riverside track: First race, (match against time), Mollie Welsh to beat 2:38, Sanford Owens backs time; J. J. Welsh backs Mollie Welsh,—$100 a side. Second race—purse $50, with an inside stake of $25 each. Joe Taylor's b. g. Frank; H. B. Acker's Coal Oil Tommy; L. B. Lindsey's s. m. Ida Lindsey. Horses to go at 2 o'clock P. M. The track has been sprinkled and is in splendid condition.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

PORTLAND, Sept. 1, 1876.

Pupils in the 6th grade in the Harrison school limits will hereafter receive instructions in the building corner Market and Third streets. A competent teacher has been assigned to that place, and pupils will assemble on Wednesday, Sept. 5th at 9 o'clock A. M., promptly, to be enrolled. By order of the Board of Directors. GEO. W. MURRAY, Clerk of School District No. 1.

IDEAL ASSOCIATION.—Dr. J. L. York will lecture in Good Templar Hall to-morrow at 2 P. M. Subject: "Wasted Power." All are invited. In the evening at 8 o'clock Dr. Harvey gives the third of his course of scientific lectures upon the subject of geology—a continuation of former lectures. See advertisement in another column.

FRUITS. Beautiful Oregon fruits are coming into market, the peaches being particularly fine. Samples of these fruits were taken to the Centennial by parties who sailed yesterday.

FOR THE CENTENNIAL.—Capt. John Harlow and W. B. Honeyman were passengers on the John L. Stephens. They go through to Philadelphia, there to take in the Centennial.

PROBABLY A SUICIDE.

MR. A. HURGREN MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS FROM HIS HOME, AND IS SUPPOSED TO HAVE DROWNED HIMSELF.

Yesterday morning the many friends of Mr. A. Hurgren, of this city, were shocked by the intelligence that while laboring under a fit of temporary insanity he had drowned himself. At first it was hoped that the report was started as a sensation, and that there was no truth in it. But later intelligence confirmed the sad story, and placed its truth beyond question. For the last year Mr. Hurgren has been in failing health, and was compelled for this reason to desist from active labor. He has been residing for some time in the southern portion of the city, some distance beyond Marquam's gulch, and near the west side railroad track. At intervals during his illness Mr. Hurgren has been subject to spells of temporary insanity, but it was never supposed for a moment by his family and friends that he would commit bodily harm, or seek to destroy life while under the influence of these attacks.

Thursday evening Mr. Hurgren retired to bed at the usual time. About half-past 11 o'clock he arose and partially dressing himself went out of doors, telling his wife that he would return in a few minutes. When he left the house, Mr. Hurgren had on his trowsers and one boot. He was bareheaded and in his shirt sleeves and the bootless foot had on a sock. Failing to return as he promised, Mrs. Hurgren became uneasy and went out to look for him, but to her great alarm she could not see him. She roused the hired man and both searched carefully about the yard and in the outbuildings, but failed to discover a single trace of the missing man. As it was too dark to track him, search had to be abandoned until daylight.

Search was resumed early yesterday morning, when tracks were discovered leading from the house down toward the river. From Mr. Hurgren's house down to the river bank is nearly half a mile. Tracks—with a boot and sock—were found directed toward the Willamet. Crossing the Macadamized road, the tracks led through a tract of low marshy land from which the water had not altogether disappeared. Through this swamp, the evidently insane man had passed, sinking in places above his knees. In one place he had no doubt become bewildered in the darkness, and missing his course turned and waded back for some distance. He then directed his course northward until arriving at the roadway which leads from the high bank down to the water works' house, along which the large main is laid. Here he came to ground which was a little elevated and dry. He then took a direct line for the river, which he reached at a point about 200 yards south of the house belonging to the water company. A large tree was lying on the bank, one end of which extended into the water. Along the trunk of this tree the tracks were distinctly followed until reaching the water where they abruptly ceased, clearly indicating that he had leaped into the river.

Ropes and grappling tackle were procured yesterday forenoon, and a number of persons were engaged until a late hour in the afternoon dragging the river. All efforts to recover the body, however, were fruitless, and the work was abandoned until this morning, when efforts will be renewed. At the point where Mr. Hurgren is supposed to have taken his last leap, the water is about 25 feet deep.

Mr. Hurgren came to Portland in the year 1857. For some years he was associated with Mr. Shindler in the wholesale furniture business. By industry, honesty and close application to business, he assisted in building up a prosperous trade, when the destructive August fire came and swept everything away. When the Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Company was organized, Mr. Hurgren became largely interested in that corporation. Mr. Hurgren was a gentleman of sterling integrity, and of high moral and religious standing in the community. His wife is plunged into the deepest grief over his disappearance and probable suicide, and she has the warmest sympathies of the community in this her time of sore trial and bereavement.

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER AT THE DALLES.

DALLES, Oregon, Aug. 31, 1876.

The Plummer Fruit Dryer, built at this place by A. Bunnell, is doing good work, running night and day, with five hands at a time. It dries 100 bushels of green apples in twenty-four hours, and some of the fruit is already laid by for the State Fair, we understand, and a good many of our citizens are contemplating putting these small dryers on their farms for home use, as the fruit is pronounced by our merchants equal to the best manufactured in the State. OCCIDENT.

A philosopher writes to inquire: "Why is it that just at the moment when a young man finds out that his girl will have him he wants to back out of the engagement?" We give up the conundrum. The girls only back out when Charles Henry won't consent to buy at Beck & Waldman's.

One of the coolest spots in town is the "Fountain," where Peter Wilhelm holds forth. He keeps the best liquors and cigars, and Weinhardt's best beer. His billiard tables are excellent, and the "Virginius" pool table continues a favorite.

W. L. ADAMS, M. D., A. M., LL. D., corner of First and Salmon streets, is curing the most inveterate chronic diseases of all kinds at a low price, by medicated, electric lightning cream baths, and by combining the German and French with the American improved practice, mixed with a little common sense. His treatment is, in the main, entirely original, and works almost miracles, as his numerous patients will attest. Is extraordinarily successful in treating female complaints.

Sore eyes speedily relieved. The worst form of piles cured, and the most malignant cancers eradicated root and branch without the use of the knife, or the money refunded.

NOTICE.—Mrs. S. Lord, First National Bank building, having abundantly proven her ability to produce a new crop of hair in all stages of baldness, also to check falling of the hair and itching of the scalp, would advise those intending to avail themselves of her treatment to do so without delay, as business will soon take her from the State for some time. Preparations sent to all parts of the country.

SALEM LETTER.

SALEM, Aug. 31, 1876.

Every indication goes to show that the capital city will be unusually lively during the ensuing two months, and Salemites generally are preparing for it. The hotels are both being throughly renovated for the accommodation of guests. Many of our citizens will throw open their houses, and rooms are already spoken for in many instances, it being a biennial harvest to boarding-house keepers, which, with an eye to business, they are keen to take advantage of. Families will often "cramp" themselves for the purpose of having "rooms to let," they being in excellent demand as the session draws near.

THE NEW CAPITOL BUILDING

Is undergoing its finishing touches, and the rubbish of the first and second floors is being unceremoniously hustled into the unfinished hall of Representatives to enable the workmen to place in complete readiness the rooms intended for use during the present session. The Senate chamber is being carpeted, the railings separating the lobbyists from the members erected, the seats and desks being placed in their proper positions, busy hands finding plenty to do in setting things to rights. The same activity is noticeable in

THE LIBRARY ROOM

Where our representatives will shortly be discussing the affairs of state. Secretary Chadwick, with his customary energy and forethought, is here, there and everywhere, superintending the arrangement of everything in detail, and we know whereof we speak when we say he will leave, nothing undone that will in any way add to the comfort or convenience of the honorable body about to convene. The old furniture, while perhaps it will answer every purpose for the time being, looks decidedly out of keeping with the general surrounding, and should be replaced by something

NEW AND ELEGANT.

At as early a day as possible. While sauntering through the building and noting the striking contrast between the parts completed and those unfinished, we could but wonder when will the whole edifice be completed and appropriately furnished. Some of the non-progressive citizens of our State think the present generation will never live to see the day. We cannot believe however such is the fact, and will indulge in a prophesy, that the session of 1880 will meet in it fully completed, a structure worthy in every way of our young and growing State.

BURGLARS AROUND.

As brisk times approach in the capital the light fingered gentry are making their presence known. Col. J. C. Bell's residence was entered last night, and the inmates aroused before anything was taken. The burglar made his entrance and exit by the same window. Our citizens will do well to keep a sharp lookout for these night owls during the next four weeks, and be prepared to give them a warm reception on sight.

A SAD AFFLICTION.

Your readers will recollect that in our last letter we chronicled the death of the child of M. J. Rhawl, Esq. We are now called upon to record the death and burial of the wife and mother, whose demise took place at the residence of her father, Mr. Cooper of Jefferson, yesterday. The funeral took place at St. James church, in this city, this morning, the remains being followed to their last resting place by a very large concourse of friends. The business houses along the line of march were closed as a tribute of respect to the memory of the deceased, who was a most estimable lady and greatly beloved by all who knew her.

THE BOYS IN BLUE.

This organization has now become a fixed fact, the following roster being appointed: C. P. Crandall, Major General; N. B. Humphrey, of Albany, Brigadier General; J. M. McCall, of Ashland, and J. C. Disoway, of Pendleton, Colonels; J. F. Brown, Eugene, Inspector General; Wm. Burnell, Judge Advocate, with the following aides: Thomas H. Reynolds, Geo. C. Sears, Wm. M. Hand and Chas. Lafollett. Gen. Humphrey has temporary command and will shortly announce his staff officers, and companies will be at once formed in various localities throughout the State.

CAPITAL NOTES.

Candidates for fancy suits in the Legislature are springing up like mushrooms from every portion of the State.

The Georgia Minstrels are heavily billed in Salem, and will likely draw a crowded house.

The Seventh Day Adventists are holding forth in South Salem this evening.

We understand that Rev. Acton, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, will have temporary charge of the M. E. Church in this city until the arrival of the newly appointed minister from California.

The State printers are now at work on the Secretary of State's report.

By purchasing your school books at J. K. Gill's you are furnished a patent book cover gratis.

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY FOR THE RELIEF OF THE AFFLICTED.

The Surgeons of the National Surgical Institute, located in Indianapolis; Pacific Division, Alhambra Building, Bush street, San Francisco, have yielded to the many urgent appeals from their patrons and friends in Oregon and Washington Territory and adjoining regions, to revisit Portland. The former visit was highly satisfactory and encouraging, many of the patients then accepted for treatment being now entirely cured, while nearly all are greatly benefited and in a fair way of recovery. Three or more of the Surgeons will be at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Portland, Oregon, from Monday, the 28th day of August, until Saturday, the 2d September, 1876, six days inclusive.

They will have with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and competent assistants and workmen to change, fit, and make such apparatus as may be required. They will come especially prepared to treat all surgical cases: Paralysis, all kinds of Deformities of the Face, Spine and Limbs, Diseased Joints, Diseased Eyes, Catarrh, Private Diseases, Piles, Fistula, etc. All who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the Institute, without the long journey to San Francisco or Indianapolis, should do so at this time. No cases will be taken without a fair hope of relief. It is needless to say that the institution is entirely responsible, and the largest and most popular of the kind in America, curing thousands annually. Remember the time and place, and come early. Send to the Institute for circular.

A Lesson Taught by Experience.

Among the many valuable lessons taught by experience, there is not one of greater moment to the invalid portion of the community than the following, viz.: That alterative treatment is only permanently successful when aided by invigoration. When the functions of the body are disordered, the use of a genial tonic with which corrective properties are combined is the speediest means of regulating them. Such a tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the most popular, safe and best articles of its class. For more than twenty-five years it has been used with signal success as a remedy for, and preventive of malarial fevers, as a means of imparting strength to the debilitated, and as a curative of dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, kidney troubles and uterine weakness. Not only have multitudes of those whom it has cured borne testimony to its behalf, but it has been repeatedly commended by the medical profession and the press.

WAS IT WORTH A LEG?

(From the English monthly Magazine.)

It was in the autumn of the year 1782 that a surgeon in Boulogne, of the name of Etienne Lefebvre, received a letter, not bearing any signature, requesting him to repair on the following day to a country house which was situated on the road leading to Calais, and to bring along such instruments as would be required for performing an operation. Lefebvre was at that period well known as a distinguished and successful operator; so much so, indeed, that he was frequently sent for from great distances. He had served for a considerable time in the navy, and his manners had, therefore, acquired a certain degree of bluntness; but, when you once became acquainted with him, you could not help liking him for the natural and unaffected goodness of his heart.

He was naturally somewhat surprised at this anonymous communication; for, although the time and place were, as already stated, mentioned with great minuteness, there was no clew afforded by which the writer could be identified. He therefore came to the conclusion that some of his jocular friends were making fun of him, and he did not keep the appointment.

Three days afterwards he again received a similar summons, but couched in more pressing terms than the first, and he was informed that at nine o'clock in the morning a carriage would be sent to bring him to the place where he was anxiously expected. Accordingly the morning, sure enough, on the last stroke of nine, a carriage drove up to his door. The doctor no longer made any hesitation, but at once took his seat in the carriage. As he was driving in, he inquired of the coachman where he was to be taken to; but the man appeared either not to know, or did not choose to tell; for he spoke in English, Lefebvre said to himself. "So it is an Englishman to whom I am summoned," and he accordingly prepared himself for an exhibition of eccentricity on the part of one of that nation which even now is so little understood by Continentals. At length the carriage stopped and the doctor alighted into the house.

He was received at the entrance by a fine looking young man of about twenty-five years of age, who requested him to walk into a large and handsome room on the first floor. The man showed him to be an Englishman, and the following conversation then ensued between them:

"You have sent for me," said the doctor.

"I am very much obliged to you for the trouble you have taken in coming here," replied the Englishman. "Be so good as to seat yourself at table, where you will find some coffee, or wine, in case you would like to partake of anything before commencing the operation."

"But first show me the patient. I wish to satisfy myself that an operation is absolutely necessary."

"It is here, Monsieur Lefebvre; pray, have confidence in me. I have entire confidence in you; here is a purse containing which I offer you as a fee for the service you are about to perform, no matter what it may be. In case of your refusing to comply with my request, you see that pistol lying there, and you are in my power. Make your peace for salvation, I will blow your brains out."

"I am not to be deterred from doing what is proper by any fear of your threats. But what do you desire? What am I to do?"

"You must cut my right leg off."

"Upon my heart," answered the surgeon, looking at him in characteristic specimen of his countrymen, "and your head also, if you please. However, unless I am much mistaken, your leg is perfectly sound. I saw you walk down stairs with the greatest activity. What can be the matter with your leg?"

"Nothing; but it must come off."

"If you are mad——"

"If such be the opinion of yours, Monsieur Lefebvre, that hand never will have performed its office."

"Well, sir, it is all one to me; still you must make up your mind as to the course you pursue. As I have no acquaintance with you; give me leave to say that you are in sound mind," observed the doctor.

"Such is not the subject to my wishes, Monsieur Lefebvre."

"Then you must excuse me if I refuse to comply with your wishes."

"Sir, I am resolved," said the Englishman, taking up the pistol, "I will not trifle with you, and yet I will compel you to amputate this leg. What you refuse to do to oblige me, through love of gain or fear of a fellow creature, you shall do through humanity."

"Humanity, sir!"

"I am resolved to shatter my leg with this pistol, and that, too, before your eyes," answered the Englishman, who accordingly seated himself, placed the pistol, and then took deliberate aim at the knee joint.

Lefebvre sprang forward to prevent him, but the Englishman coolly exclaimed:

"Do not come near; if you do, I fire. Now, only answer me this question: Do you wish to prolong my suffering needlessly?"

"Sir, you are mad," answered the doctor, in a fury; "but have your own way; I am ready to do as you wish."

Everything was ready for the operation. As soon as the surgeon took up his instruments the Englishman lighted his cigar, and declared he would smoke until the operation was concluded. He kept his word. The lifeless leg rested upon the floor, but the Englishman still smoked on. The operation had been performed in a most masterly manner, and thanks to Dr. Lefebvre's skill and attention, the patient soon became perfectly recovered, although, of course, he had to be supplied with a wooden leg. He rewarded the surgeon, whom he had learned to esteem more and more every day; thanked him with tears in his eyes for the great obligation under which he had laid him; and in a short time started for England.

About two months after his patient's departure the surgeon received the following letter from England:

"Enclosed you will receive a token of my boundless gratitude—a bill of exchange on my banker in Paris for 6,500 francs. You have rendered me the happiest of men by ridding me of a limb which was an obstacle in the way of my happiness. Learn, then, the reason of what you termed my madness. You assured me that there could be no justifiable motive for such a mutilation. I offered you a wager, and I think you were right in refusing it. After my second return from the East Indies, I became acquainted with Susan Black, the most accomplished and fascinating of women. I sought her hand in marriage. Her fortune and family were such as met with the entire approbation of my parents. As for me, I thought only of her charms. I was soon happy enough to gain her affection—a fact which she did not attempt to deny; but she, at the same time refused to become my wife. In vain did I beseech her to do so; in vain did her relations all second my desire. She was inflexible. For a long time I could not discover the reason of her opposition to a marriage which she herself confessed would make her happy; until, at last, one of her sisters revealed the fatal secret to me. Susan was a marvel of beauty, but she was so unfortunate as to have lost a leg, and she had conceived the idea that I married her only through compassion. Thus she determined to become like her. Thanks to you, my dear Lefebvre, my wishes were soon accomplished. I returned with my wooden leg to London. I hastened to gain information of Miss Black. The report had been spread, and I myself had taken care to write to my friends in England to the same effect, that I had had the misfortune to fracture my leg, and that amputation had been found absolutely necessary. Everyone expressed the greatest concern at my misfortune. Susan fainted upon the first occasion of my presenting myself. She was for a long time inconsolable, but at length she consented to become my wife. It was only on the morning after our marriage that I confessed to her the sacrifice by means of which I had at length been enabled to gain her consent to be mine. The avowal increased her love. Oh! my excellent friend, had I ten legs to lose, I would give them all up for the sake of my beloved Susan. So long as I live, rely on my gratitude. If ever you visit England, do not fail to come here, so that I may make you acquainted with my wife; and then tell me whether or not I was out of my senses.

Yours, faithfully,

ARTHUR OXLEY.

Monsieur Lefebvre answered the letter of his English friend in the following terms:

"SIR: Accept my best thanks for your very generous present,—for so I must term what you have sent me, having been previously magnificently remunerated for my trouble, as you were pleased to term it. I wish you, as well as your charming wife, all imaginable happiness. True it is that to give a leg in exchange for a beautiful, tender and virtuous wife is not too much, provided the happiness endures. Adam sacrificed one of his ribs to become possessed of our common mother Eve, and more than one man has laid down his life for the sake of his beloved. Notwithstanding all this, allow me to adhere to my former opinion. For the present you are doubtless right, for you are now in the honeymoon; but at some future time you will acknowledge the truth of what I advanced. I beg your attention to what I am about to say. I fear that in two years you will repent of having had your leg amputated above the knee-joint. You will think that to have it cut off lower down would have been quite sufficient. In three years you will be persuaded that the sacrifice of a foot would have answered all purposes; in four, that of the big toe; in five, the little one; and, at last, you will have confessed that to have parted with a nail, without necessity, would have been a piece of egregious folly. All this I assert without in the slightest degree impugning the merit of your admirable helpmate. In my own youthful days I would have, at any time, given my life for my mistress, but never my leg, for I should have feared repentance for the rest of my days. Had I really done so, I should have every moment said to myself, 'Lefebvre, you are a madman.' With highest consideration, yours very obediently,

ETIENNE LEFEBVRE."

In the year 1793, during the Reign of Terror, the surgeon of Bologne, having been accused of being an aristocrat by one of his younger professional brethren, who envied him his practice, was obliged to take refuge in London, in order to save his neck from the guillotine. Being without employment or acquaintances, he inquired for the residence of his former patient, Mr. Oxley. He was directed to it and, on arriving at the house, he sent up his name, and was immediately admitted. In a huge arm-chair, seated before the fire, with a bottle of wine beside him, sat a portly personage whose size was so great that it was with difficulty that he could rise to welcome his visitor. "Welcome, Monsieur Lefebvre," exclaimed the huge Englishman. "Do not be offended at my receiving you in this manner, but my cursed wooden leg won't allow me to do anything. You have come, no doubt, my friend, to see if in the long run you were not right."

"I am a fugitive seeking an asylum among you."

"You shall stay with me, for you are really a wise man. You will console me. Do you know, my dear Lefebvre, that, had it not been for this abominable wooden leg rendering me useless, I should by this time have been Admiral of the Blue. I spend my life in reading the newspapers, and in curses that I am tied here when everybody else is up and doing. Remain here; you shall comfort me."

"Your charming wife can doubtless do that better than I can."

"Oh, as for that, no. Her wooden leg prevents her from gadding about and dancing; so she has, as a resource, given herself up to cards and scandal. There is no possibility of living alone with her; in other respects she is a good enough woman."

"What! was I right, then?" exclaimed the surgeon.

"Oh, a thousand times, my dear Lefebvre; but say no more on that subject. I was an unutterable fool. If I had my leg back again, I would not part with the paring of a single nail. Between ourselves, I must have been crazy; but keep that to yourself."

The markets present nothing new to-day, though more activity in general trade circles is noted. The wheat crop is being rapidly stored and some transactions are noted, though farmers generally refuse to sell at current rates. The Mercury says the Salem mills are paying 67½ cents per bushel for choice wheat, an advance of 2½ cents on the ruling price there for some time past. Buyers here pay $1 35 for all good shipping lots offering, but are not reported as securing very large quantities.

VALUABLE LANDS FOR SALE.

600,000 Acres in

EASTERN OREGON!

For Farming and Grazing Purposes.

THESE LANDS ARE SITUATED IN WASCO, Grant and Baker counties, and are offered for sale in such sized tracts, not less than 160 acres, as purchasers may desire. Here is afforded a most favorable opportunity to immigrants and settlers seeking homes and low priced land to acquire both on the most reasonable terms. These lands are excellent for farming and grazing. On most of the tracts no grubbing, or other preparation of the land for plowing is requisite. A growth of nutricious grass covers the uplands, affording the best of pasturage, while in the valleys and bottom lands the grain can be mowed and made into hay. Living springs and streams water the lands in various directions. The uplands, or rolling lands, can be put into crops with the most satisfactory return. Fruit, particularly peaches, plums, grapes, apples, pears and cherries, as well as the smaller fruits, can be grown in great abundance. The climate of Eastern Oregon is very healthful. Flourishing towns are located at convenient points for traffic. The mails are regularly conveyed throughout that section, and a prosperous population is already established, occupied in farming, stock growing, mining, and various other pursuits.

Terms, $1 25 per acre and upwards, according to quality and quantity. Interest ten per cent. on deferred payments.
